Rustic Farm-Style Flair

A couple with a young child desired an open farm-style kitchen that accommodates everyday family living and creates an ideal space for entertaining guests. Utilizing three different cabinet finishes and a constant mix of feminine and masculine materials, the designer created warmth, texture, and harmony in the kitchen. A large, elegant island opens up to the family room, and a rustic farm table in front of the island serves as a cozy spot for family dining and entertaining. Low storage innovations enable the child to access the kitchen items with ease and safety. Reclaimed 100-year-old barn wood adorns the ceiling; large white trestles add texture and beauty, while anchoring the entire space. A custom hood behind the range is the main focal point of the kitchen, and an attractive bar area makes room for casual entertaining. Balancing the simplicity of the rustic atmosphere with the elegance of modern style, the designer succeeded in designing a space that perfectly embraced the clients' vision for their home.
